Confirmed presenters to date include:

    Velvet Warrior PMP, leads a panel of senior practitioners to examine
        "The Challenges of Moving IS/IT Project Organizations Up the CMM Ladder". The Panelists will introduce the issues and then will lead the participants in group discussions to identify strategies for overcoming the barriers:
    Luba Ebert, PMP, "The Challenge of Process and Methodology Development" Stacey Cerniuk, "The Challenge of Finding and Retaining Qualified Personnel" Velvet Warrior, PMP, and other panelists, "The Challenge of Getting Corporate Buy-in"

    Roger King, PMP, "Project Management in Product

Development". Lessons from from a high-technology development and production environment.

Blake Johnson, PMP, "Preventative Maintenance Programming".

A Participatory Workshop on Communications
"Effective Interviewing"

Sam Wharton, PMP, "The Business of Managing Projects"
A presentation and workshop designed to bring home to Project Managers the effect on their professional performance and reputation that the business environment can engender. Pre-reading materials that establish the business scenario will be issued to the participants.

The seminar emphasises the lessons on good management practice that are transferable among project technologies: whether they be IS, construction, new products, or business process change. Practitioners from all project disciplines praise the cross-functional learning at the seminars.

Feri Demehri, PMP, the Project Manager for the event, can be contacted for more information on participation opportunities and the program at fdemehri@hotmail.com .
