Subject: We Need Your Survey Response

Hi everyone

July 30 has come and gone and the sweltering summer has resulted in very few responses from Society members to Dr. Reich's survey.

If you could please respond to it, we will be able to feature an interim report on the findings at one of our fall seminars this year. They need 50 responses, and so far are at about 15.

The Society of PM Professionals supports this research as part of the Society's educational mission and is assisting the research team by broadcasting this request to those on the distribution list for Society event notifications.

Many of you know of SFU professors Blaize Reich and Andrew Gemino from previous presentations at our Society meetings. They are founders of PM Perspectives (www.pmperspectives.org) and their group, including Dr. Chris Sauer (Oxford), is currently initiating a new PM study. They are examining the ways in which PMs manage knowledge in order to contribute to the attainment of business value. There is very little academic work done in this area, and they are hoping to make a difference.

The research is being done through Survey Monkey, and they are looking for participants to assist in the data collection, by responding to the survey.

They are targeting PMs who are working with IT-enabled business projects. They are particularly interested in having Society members participate, since they feel we are generally a more experienced set of project managers and should be knowledgeable about the practices they are investigating.

To respond to the survey and assist with the research, please follow the link below:

Thanks everyone for your participation and have a great summer!
